

Place logo here

VIEWPOINT

ADD YOUR SUBTITLE HERE

If any of these articles pique your interest and you want to discuss more, please get in touch.

Business name, Address Line 1, Address Line 2, Town/City, Postcode
firstname.secondname@theopenworkpartnership.com | www.businessname.co.uk | +44 (0) 0000 000000

Autumn Budget 2024: Winners and Losers

Chancellor of the Exchequer Rachel Reeves outlined the Government's financial plans for the next five years. The measures, which will raise up to £40 billion for public finances, aim to "restore economic stability" and put "more pounds in people's pockets".

On 30 October 2024, Chancellor of the Exchequer Rachel Reeves announced the UK Government's Autumn Budget alongside the Office of Budget Responsibility's economic and fiscal forecast. The measures aim to raise more than £40 billion in taxes, plugging an alleged £22 billion black hole in public finances left by the previous government. Reeves committed to drive economic growth, but also said that the Government wouldn't borrow to fund current spending whilst maintaining the Bank of England's inflation target of 2%.

Commenting on the Budget, Reeves said: "This Government was given a mandate to restore stability to our economy and begin a decade of national renewal. To fix the foundations and deliver change through responsible leadership in the national interest. That is our task, and I know we can achieve it."

So, what are the potential impacts of these new measures? Below we outline who stands to benefit from these changes and who might be negatively affected. Let's start with the positives.

The Winners

The NHS

The Chancellor pledged to significantly increase public spending on the NHS. Reeves promised a £22.6 billion increase to the "day-to-day" budget of the NHS alongside a £3.1 billion boost to its capital budget over the next two years. The Chancellor commented that this would be the "largest real term increase in NHS spending outside of COVID since 2010."

Sustainable transport and energy

Reeves also announced that the National Wealth Fund would be used to invest in key areas like gigafactories and green hydrogen plants across the country. Meanwhile, over £2 billion will be invested in supporting the automotive sector's transition to electric vehicles.

Property developers

Funds for the Affordable Homes Programme will increase to £3.1 billion to help Labour deliver on its promise to build over 1.5 million homes. Reeves said the Government would hire hundreds of new planning officers and make reductions to Right to Buy discounts, putting more money into the pockets of local councils. This news could incentivise investment in the UK's property market and make it easier for property developers to build new homes in the UK.

Driver

Reeves confirmed that the freeze on fuel duty will continue for another year, meaning drivers could save approximately £60 a year at the pumps. The freeze will cost £3 billion a year, but the Chancellor was clear that she wanted to ease "the burden on motorists". This move could help relieve the fiscal pressure on delivery drivers, couriers and supply chains throughout the country.

Young and low-income workers

The Chancellor announced that the Government is increasing the National Living Wage for workers aged 21 or over by 6.7% to £12.21 an hour (which could be worth up to £1,400 a year for a full-time worker) and increasing the National Minimum Wage for 18–20-year-olds by 16.3% to £10 an hour. Reeves also confirmed that National Insurance won't be increasing for workers. Increases to the National Living and Minimum Wages are intended to provide much-needed support to those on the lowest incomes.

Small businesses

The employment allowance for business will increase from £5,000 to £10,500, reducing the National Insurance liability of small businesses. The Chancellor said that this would mean around 865,000 would pay no National Insurance in 2025, providing welcome relief for SMEs who are struggling to retain an effective workforce and attract applicants without a hit to their profits.

What's next?

The Autumn Budget contained several key changes that are likely to have significant impacts on individuals and businesses across the UK. There's a lot of information to process and it may not be immediately clear how the changes set out in the Budget will affect you. If you have any questions about whether you are a winner or a loser from the Autumn Budget, and how it will affect you and your finances, please get in touch.

The Losers

Employers

Reeves confirmed that employers' National Insurance contributions will increase to 15% from April 2025. The Government is also reducing the threshold at which employers start paying National Insurance from £9,100 to £5,000 per year. Furthermore, the Chancellor announced that the current freeze on income tax thresholds would end in four years. From 2028, personal tax bands will be updated in line with inflation.

These changes will have a direct impact on British employers, but they could also have a knock-on effect for employees. Many businesses use savings on National Insurance to fund pension contributions or employee benefits. If the increased burden of National Insurance contributions proves too harsh, employees could lose these benefits as a result.

New businesses and investors

The Chancellor announced an increase in the lower rate of Capital Gains Tax (CGT) from 10% to 18% and the higher rate from 20 to 24%. She noted that, even with these increases, the UK will still have the lowest capital gains tax rate of any European G7 economy. But some analysts argue that the move could alienate investors and even decrease tax revenue overall if investment is pulled from UK startups.

Foreign investors

Reeves also announced sweeping changes to the tax status for non-domiciled high-net-worth individuals operating in the UK. The Chancellor said that Labour would "abolish the non-dom tax regime, and we will remove the outdated concept of domicile from the tax system from April 2025."

The government is also set to extend the Temporary Repatriation Relief to three years with the aim of bringing billions of new funds into the UK. The independent Office for Budget Responsibility estimates that this could raise £12.7 billion over the next five years.

Second homeowners

The Stamp Duty land tax for owners of second homes (known as the Higher Rate for Additional Dwellings) increased to 5% from 31 October 2024. The Chancellor said that the move is designed to "support over 130,000 additional transactions from people buying their first home or moving home over the next five years." However, this increase could have an impact on landlords, property developers, and the owners of holiday homes and other rental properties.

Private schools

All education, training and boarding services provided by private schools will now be subject to VAT at the standard rate of 20% from 1 January 2025. Private schools also won't be able to claim back VAT on the supplies and services they pay for.

The value of investments and any income from them can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the original amount invested.

HM Revenue and Customs practice and the law relating to taxation are complex and subject to individual circumstances and changes which cannot be foreseen.

Investing or saving?

Investing can beat inflation

Investing is a better option if you've got longer-term goals because inflation can erode the value of cash savings over the medium to short term, and your money may not have the same spending power as when you first put it away.

For example

If you have £2,000 in savings and the bank offers a 1% interest rate, each year you will get back £20. However, if the inflation rate is 6% the cash in your savings account will fall in value. After one year your cash would be worth £1,887. After five years it would be worth only £1,495.

Saving money is a great way to prepare for unexpected expenses and investing your money can have the potential for higher growth than saving.

A lot of people put their money in a savings account and leave it there to accumulate interest. While this is a good strategy in the short term, you potentially risk losing out on higher returns in the long run, while also struggling to keep up with inflation. However, investing is a good approach if you have long-term financial goals and want to earn more money than you could by saving it.

What's the difference between saving and investing?

With saving you are setting aside cash for future use, while investing means using cash to buy assets that you expect to produce a profit or income. The biggest difference between saving and investing is the level of risk. With saving you will always get back at the very least what you have put in, as well as any interest on your deposits. You won't lose any money, making it a less risky option.

Investing your money means it will rise and fall over time and there is a chance you could lose some of your initial investment. Your financial adviser will be able to help you make sure you're aware of the risks and the minimum time you should consider investing for. A longer timeframe (at least five years) will give your investment more time to recover if there are any sudden market swings.

Speak to your financial adviser to find out about a range of investment opportunities to help you meet your financial goals.

The value of investments and any income from them can fall as well as rise and you may not get back the original amount invested.

Types of investments

The main types of asset classes that investors could choose from – which your adviser can go into detail with you – are equities, bonds, and property. Different asset classes have different levels of risk and return. Usually, the safer an asset is the lower the returns will be, while the riskier an asset is, the higher the returns.

Property this could be investing in commercial property through investment funds, including retail, office, and industrial property. It makes a good long-term investment and is effective at beating inflation. Property can add diversification to your portfolio as it tends to perform differently to other assets in response to different market conditions. However, property does come with its risks, including a risk of a fall in value as well as the maintenance costs.

Bonds sometimes called fixed-term investments, bonds are issued by governments and companies looking to raise money. A bond is essentially a loan made to a company or a government by an investor for a set period – usually several years. In return they pay you a regular income in the form of interest over the life of the bond, after which they must repay your loan. Bonds typically offer stable returns and are a lower risk than equities, although they tend to offer lower returns in the long term.

Equities also known as stocks and shares, equities are issued by a public limited company and can be bought and sold on stock exchanges. When you buy an equity, you are basically buying a piece of that company and become a shareholder. Equities can make you money through increases in share price or you can receive income in the form of dividend payments. The disadvantage is that returns are not guaranteed, and the share price could fall below the level that you invested.

Could extra money help you in retirement?

Why consider equity release?

Equity release allows you to unlock tax-free funds tied up in your main residence. Whether you prefer a one-off lump sum or instalments after an initial release, this option can provide the financial boost you need.

If you're over 50 and a homeowner there are many reasons why you might consider equity release:

- Pay off your existing mortgage and potentially other debts, freeing up monthly cash flow.
- Supplement your income in retirement.
- Fund home improvements or a dream holiday.
- Support your children or grandchildren in getting on the property ladder.
- Another great benefit of equity release is that you get to remain in your own home. There will be no need to downsize or move.

Important considerations

A Lifetime Mortgage allows you to unlock tax-free cash from your home while retaining full ownership and the ability to stay as long as you wish. You can choose to make reduced or no monthly repayments, and with the No Negative Equity Guarantee, you will never owe more than your home is worth. However, as interest is charged on both the original loan and the interest that has been added, the amount you owe will increase over time, reducing the equity left in your home and the value of any inheritance, potentially to nothing.

It's essential to seek financial advice as a Lifetime Mortgage may affect your entitlement to means-tested benefits and is not suitable for everyone.

When arranging a Lifetime Mortgage, you may need to cover associated costs such as a property valuation, legal fees and advice, just as you do for a residential mortgage.

Although the decision is yours, discussing your plans with family and beneficiaries is encouraged, as a Lifetime Mortgage could impact potential inheritance. We recommend inviting them to any meetings with your Financial Adviser to ensure everyone is informed and involved in the decision-making process.

Navigating the variety of Lifetime Mortgages can be complex, which is why specialist, impartial advice is crucial if traditional mortgages don't meet your needs.

We're here to help

We're here to help you navigate the market based on your unique circumstances. If equity release isn't quite right for you, we'll be able to help you identify alternative solutions that might be better.

If you would like to find out more or are interested in receiving our 'Making More of Your Home' brochure, please contact me/us.

If you would prefer to not be contacted about the products and services we offer, please let us know so we can update our records accordingly.

YOUR HOME MAY BE REPOSSESSED IF YOU DO NOT KEEP UP REPAYMENTS ON YOUR MORTGAGE

Here's how financial protection can offer security for parents

Serious illness can place immense stress on our families. The cost of caring for an unwell child, worry over access to essential services, and the emotional toll of serious illness are all things that no parent wants to think about.

We can't predict what the future will hold for the health of our families, but we can take proactive steps to prepare for the risk that we or our children might become critically unwell.

Appropriate financial protection can be a vital safety net for parents, providing essential cover for children and easing the pressure of caring for them.

Critical illness payouts can help you care for your child

No parent wants to consider the possibility of their child becoming seriously ill, but planning for the worst can offer the greatest peace of mind. Robust and appropriate financial protection can help shore up your finances and allow you to focus on caring for your child.

Critical illness cover pays out a lump sum if you are diagnosed with an illness covered by the policy. Many of these policies include cover for a child of the policyholder, paying out a proportion of the full amount if they become seriously ill. This payout provides a financial safety net, covering your expenses and allowing you to take time away from work to care for your child.

Critical illness cover may also come with other benefits that can offer further support for your family, such as:

- A payout if your child is hospitalised because of an accident.
- Cover for the cost of accommodation so that you can be close to your child if they're in hospital.
- Childcare costs if you're diagnosed with a serious illness that's covered by your policy.

The cost of critical illness cover varies depending on how large you want a potential payout to be, as well as other factors like your age and general health. It's important to note that you'll only be covered as long as you keep paying your premiums.

Children are often automatically included in critical illness cover but this isn't guaranteed. Contact your provider for clarification and be aware that your premiums could rise if you add a child to a policy that doesn't already cover them.

Cover for a child typically starts from the first few weeks after birth and lasts until they're 18, or 21 if they're in full-time education, but this can vary between providers. There may be other restrictions to critical illness cover that you should be aware of – some policies will only allow one claim per child whilst others might exclude certain conditions that are present from birth.

It's important to check the details of critical illness cover thoroughly when comparing your option to make sure that you're buying the right cover for your circumstances.

Private medical insurance could help provide better care for your family

You may want to consider taking out private medical insurance to compliment the security that financial protection could offer you. The Guardian reports that the private health insurance market has grown by £385 million in the last year. At the same time, rising wait times and staff shortages are causing public satisfaction with the NHS to slump according to the long-running British Social Attitudes survey.

Private medical insurance can help to put your mind at ease by reducing waiting times for a range of services (like tests and consultations) whilst giving you a wider choice of treatment providers. It could also help to cover the cost of a private room, giving you and your family greater privacy if you need to stay in hospital overnight.

Private health insurance can cover much more than just physical illness. Some providers offer access to counselling and mental health services which are becoming increasingly important for the wellbeing of younger generations – the number of children and young people seeking support for their mental health increased by 25% from 2022 to 2023 according to data from Aviva.

The cost of private health insurance and the level of cover you'll receive are influenced by a range of factors, including who you want the policy to cover, your lifestyle, and family medical history. It's important to take the time to understand how comprehensive your options are and any exclusions that might affect your family.

Talk to us to see how we can help protect your family

Financial protection is just one way that you can prepare for the unexpected. Get in touch if you'd like to know more about financial protection for your family against serious illness.

Please note: Financial protection plans typically have no cash in value at any time and cover will cease at the end of the term. Cover will lapse if premiums are unpaid. Cover is subject to terms and conditions and may have exclusions. Definition of illnesses vary between providers and will be explained in policy documentation.

The future of wealth is female

More women own their wealth, and their ambitions are changing too.

Industry commentators often say that 60% of UK wealth will be in the hands of women by 2025.

That figure is from a report published 20 years ago, so we can't vouch for its accuracy today. But there are other signs that the Great Wealth Transfer is pushing more wealth towards women and that the face of financial advice is changing as a result.

Mavericks and trendsetters

Baby boomers own most of the UK's wealth and female boomers are increasingly coming into the money left behind by their partners. Research from Schroders suggests that two thirds of baby boomer wealth is found in joint households, and that the first transfer typically occurs between a husband and a wife.

But this situation is changing. A growing proportion of female wealth owners are Gen X (born between 1965 and 1980) whose needs, expectations and ambitions are different from their mothers. And the stereotype of the risk-averse female investor is rapidly eroding as the number and diversity of female wealth owners continues to grow.

Almost 70% of women want to make a positive social impact with their investments, according to analysis from The WealthiHer Network. Meanwhile, half of UK landlords are female and almost 10% of volatile cryptocurrency investments are owned by women, according to more Schroders research.

Even women who don't own exotic assets are starting to reshape the advice industry. Many women are taking control of their wealth, some for the first time in their lives. Whilst the maverick female investor is increasingly common, you don't have to be radical to make the most of your money.

Get set for your future

Whether you want to leverage your wealth for greater independence, use your money to do good in the world, or simply provide for the people you care about, we're here to give you the confidence and advice you need to realise your ambitions.

The value of your investment can go down as well as up and you may not get back the full amount you invested. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

